THE GARBAGE AND ASHES

COLLECTION AND DISPOSAL UNDER STREET CLEANING DEPARTMENT.

Promulgation of Information of Interest to Householders-Methods to Be Pursued.

The collection and disposal of garbage, dead animals and all other municipal waste and refuse have passed from the super-vision of the health officer to that of the superintendent of the street cleaning de-partment, Mr. Warner Stutler, pursuant to the provisions of the District appropriation act of June 6, 1900. As heretofore stated, the collection of ashes by the District will not be commenced until August 1, as it will not be possible to complete the necessary preliminaries before then. But in no case will ashes be then or thereafter removed which have been allowed to accumulate to which have been allowed to accumulate to any unusual extent.

Persons having reason to complain of the non-collection of garbage will hereafter communicate with Mr. Stutler or his department, as the health officer will no longer be the proper person with whom to file such complaints.

For the information of the people of the District, Mr. Stutler has prepared and will issue in a day or two a little pamphlet of rules and regulations governing the collection and disposal of municipal waste and the cleaning of the streets. This volume is dedicated by Mr. Stutler "To the taxpayers and all others who take pride and pleasure in a clean city, and who desire to make and maintain for the city of Washington the enviable record of being the cleanest city in the world."

"In view of the fact," says Mr. Stutler,
"that the healthy condition and the low death rate of any city are in a great measure due to the careful and systematic collection of refuse and garbage and cleanly condition of streets and alleys, we urgently request your co-operation in our efforts to carry out the wise and judicious laws that define the duties of citizens, contractors and this department in their relation to the city."

Garbage Includes Refuse.

The word "garbage" it is explained

the contractor, if brought to the place of obsposal.

As heretofore explained, Mr. Joshua Warfield, who has held the contract for collecting and disposing of garbage and dead animals, will continue such work until December 1, when Mr. Marvin H. Chamberlain of Decroit, Mich., will enter upon a five-year contract for performing such service. Mr. Chamberlain will dispose of the refuse and waste collected by him by reduction, the delay in his taking up the work being alone due to the time required to construct outside of the District his reduction plant.

Funeral of Mrs. Sullivan. Funeral services were held yesterday afternoon over the remains of Mrs. T. C. Sullivan, upon the conclusion of which the body was cremated at the establishment of J. William Lee. Addresses were made by Miliam Lee. Addresses were made by James Albert Clark, and Rev. Alexander Kent began by reading Browning's poem on "Sleep," and said the thoughts of the deceased were broad enough to include all religions. Mr. Clark, in his address, made it apparent that for the reason stated by Dr. Kent the deceased had come to accept the central teachings of theosophy.

WHAT CHIEF PARRIS FEARED. ecident Regarded as Due to Change in Regulations.

The collision between a car of the Metropolitan railroad and the hose carriage of No. 7 Engine Company at 9th and R streets yesterday afternoon, in which Foreman rowly escaped death, was such an accident as Mr. Joseph Parris, chief engineer of the fire department, predicted would occur when the Commissioners, several months ago, directed that street cars stop thereafter on the far side instead of the near side of intersecting streets. It is also such an accident as people residing in the neigh-borhood have expected to see, for numerous complaints have been made to the munici-pal authorities of the very high rate of speed of cars on the 9th street line in that speed of cars on the 9th street line in that and other localities.

Speaking of yesterday's accident, Commissioner Macfarland, who has immediate supervision of the fire department, said to a reporter of The Star today:

"It was a most deplorable accident, and I am convinced that something must be done to prevent a repetition of it. Our firemen must be protected. I only learned of the accident by chance, and immediately went to the scene. It was all over then, and all I could do was to see that Foreman, Wagner and his injured men were receiving every care and attention. That the street car was running at a high rate of speed at the time is evident, I think, from the force with which it struck the hose carriage and the distance it passed after strikriage and the distance it passed after ing it. I am told that in Baltimore riage and the distance it passed after striking it. I am told that in Baltimore motormen are required to stop their cars the moment they hear the bells of the apparatus of the fire department, no matter where their cars then happen to be, upon approaching an intersecting street. That might be a very good regulation to enforce here; but I am convinced something must be done in the matter, and I have no doubt that the street railway companies will be only too glad to require their men to observe such instructions hereafter as will prevent a like accident."

Chief Parris said today he found, after investigating the case, that Foreman Wagner, and his men were entirely blameless in the matter. The foreman is a man of discretion and is cautious, and the chief added that several times he and other members of the department have been placed in great danger in responding to alarms because of the high rate of speed at which street cars are run in the city, and because of the neglect of many of the motormen to recognize the fact that by law the apparatus of fire have the right of way.
